One Hundred Cases Containing Delicacies Sent to the Utah Soldiers at Manila.

to us with a baritone voice, almost, if not quite, as striking as his former soprano.

No charge is to be made for this musical treat, but strict order will be demanded, and that it may be had, the outer gates will close at 8 o'clock, the hour of beginning. Children, as usual, are invited, but children should be accompanied by their parents. Babies in arms are not desired.

Among the many meritorious musical organizations of Salt Lake City, the Entente club has proceeded far enough upon its way to demonstrate its usefulness and to give promise of a much wider sphere of influence, if properly sustained. Various soloists, vocal and instrumental, an amateur opera company, bands and orchestras occupy a vast field of musical activity, all pursuing their chosen work along their own individual lines. But the Entente club is an organization through which all these musical bodies would be able to find a common center of development and recreation, untrammelled by extraneous considerations. A membership of, say 100, could be formed in this community which would furnish inspiration to musicians generally and continually elevate the level of popular taste. This can be done upon the same principle of co-operation that is now dominating all the enterprises of the world. It is upon this fundamental idea that the Entente club is based. At the Wagner festival, for instance, six members gave admirably rendered selections, vocal and instrumental, from four or five of the great operas. The night with French composers enabled a few other members and invited guests to give some of the best of French music. Thomas, Gounod, Faure, Debussy and De Havelod. The performances either night would have made a concert programme anywhere. In addition, a brief paper is always given upon the subject of the evening. Thus, the occasional contributor of his talents receives the benefit of the club's enjoyment.

In this, the third year of the club, a wide range of subjects has been chosen for the sake of variety. The next recital, on Nov. 12, will be a miscellaneous programme, to be followed by evenings with Russian composers, Chopin, Beethoven and others.

STAGE ECHOES.

Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliot, in "Nathan Hale," opened the Theatre in New Orleans last Monday night.

A dispatch from Portland, Me., dated last Monday, says: Mr. Melbourne MacDowell's company began a three night engagement here this evening at the Jefferson theatre, playing to a crowded house. It was Mr. MacDowell's first appearance behind the foot-lights since the death of his wife, Miss Fanny Davenport, three weeks ago. The play was "Cappitara," and Mr. MacDowell gave his well known rendering of Marie Antoinette. He was enthusiastically received, and several times he and Miss Blanch Walsh, who was an ideal Cappitara, were called before the curtain.

Mr. Frohman sends us the itemized box office returns of Viola Allen's first two weeks' engagements in New York. The figures are: first week, $10,212; second week, $15,712.

"Mistaken Will Happen," in which Benedicta Crossman and Charlie Dickson have the lead roles, comes to the theatre Nov. 1, 2 and 3.

There are four sisters in Frank Daniels' comic opera, and three of them are prima donnas. They are Helen and Lillian Redmond, Sadie and Mae Emmens. Lillian Redmond, while not yet a prima donna, is one of the best singers in the city, and her voice is of exceptionally excellent quality.

Willie Collier, the quiet American comedian, in "The Man from Mexico," under the management of Smith & Rice, is one of the early offerings among the attractions secured for this city. Many comedians come and go during the course of a theatrical year, and make little impression and are soon forgotten. But it is safe to say that all who have witnessed Collier's performance in "The Man from Mexico" will remember the event for many a long day, according to all reports.

A telegram received by the dramatic editor of The Herald from Goodwin & Lask late last evening states that the noted stage manager will pass through Ogden today en route for the east.

The Frawley company produced "Love in Harness" in San Francisco last Monday night. "The Wife" at the Alhambra, Matthew and Eugene at the Columbia, "The Circus Queen" at the Tivoli, Clara Thropp at the Comedy and Mr. and Mrs. Goble at the Orpheum were the opening fare.

The death of Mrs. Caroline Miskel Hoyt brings to light the fact that her husband was at work on a play which she was to return to the stage. It was to be named "A Dog in a Man's Skin." The play will, perhaps never be finished now.

Minnie Hank, who in private life is the Honorable Warren, was bitten on the upper lip a few years ago by a pet parrot. Some tissues were destroyed and the victim's singing days were thought to be ended. She has finally regained the lost notes and will soon resume her operatic career.

Fanny Davenport's death recalls an anecdote that she used to tell as an illustration of the gentle and kindly character of Edwin Booth. For some childish misdeed or other, she and one of her sisters were condemned to sit at a table to eat their dinner. "We did not mind it so much," she said, "when no one but the family was present, but one particular day Mr. Booth arrived unexpectedly and walked right into the dining-room. When he saw us he came up, patted us on the shoulder, smiled and said he had often sat at a table with a bad boy, and the best that was to be done was to sit down with him. Mother was conquered, and, of course, Mr. Booth and the best that was to be done was to sit down with him. He put us completely at our ease with funny remarks about his boyhood, and made two shame-faced little girls very happy."

Nat Goodwin has the scenario of a new play by Clyde Fitch, titled "Teddy." It deals with military life in the west.

UNITY CONCERT.

The story of Santiago and the Cuban campaign told by Sergeants Dickerson and Logan and Private Tyne of the Twenty-fourth Infantry. A quartette, consisting of Messrs. Brooks, Bullitt, Bryant, Merced and Ricks of the same regiment will sing the following selections: "Down on the Wabash," "Break the News to Mother," "Oh, Mama, You Shall Be Free," "I Love Her Just As I Am."

Unity hall, Sunday evening, Oct. 23. Admission, 10 cents.

It would be difficult to imagine a more excellent lot of goods than that which last night went through the Wells-Fargo express office, bound for the Utah volunteers at Manila via San Francisco. The articles were sent in response to and as the outcome of the call of the ladies of the Red Cross society, made some time ago, asking that the Thanksgiving of our honored boys be made as bright as possible by sending to them the good things not otherwise obtainable in their soldierly lives. The society, friends and relatives of the boys more than answered that call. Nearly 11 cases, each containing a dinner of such delicacies as plum pudding, fruit cake, scones, deviled ham, olives, etc., for five men were included in the shipment. Besides the many relatives of this order, there were sent in numerous newspapers and periodicals, The Herald, Munsey's and Harper's, books, magazines, and a small quantity of liquor "for medicinal purposes" also found room in some boxes.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the ladies of the Red Cross and others instrumental in carrying the plan to so successful a termination. President Mrs. W. B. Riter and Mrs. Riger worked unflinchingly in personally supervising the work of starting the goodies on their long journey at this late hour. Mrs. E. C. Webber of Z. C. M. I. donated the valuable services of James Gibson, who packed the cases to the greatest possible advantage, providing himself with the right man in the right place.

The express company's bill for shipping the goods to San Francisco will be the unbroken record of the year. From there the goods will be sent to Manila. It is now set for Monday at 3 p. m. in the city and county building.
